GESNERIADS

AFRICAN VIOLETS AND OTHER PLANTS IN THIS GROUP CULTURE

The first and most important point in the culture of plants is clean, sterilized soil, pots and any other utensils used.

Use a potting soil composed of the richest leaf mold, peat and for lightness, a portion of sand may be added, have good drainage. Do not let the sun shine on plants when the foliage is wet. This causes spotting of the leaves.

Rain water or well water is the best. Do not use water from a water softener. If it is necessary to use water that contains chemicals, it may be boiled and let stand for 12 hours in an open container. This helps rid the chemicals from the water.

Liquid fertilizer applied every two weeks will be about right. Care should be taken to use a balanced fertilizer. Do not use fertilizer while the plant is dormant. Plants such as Gloxinias, Achimenes, Naegelias are bulbous plants and have a rest period. During this time they should be watered only enough to keep the bulb plump for the next blooming season.

Use a little more or brighter light for the bulbous types than for the African Violets, but do not make the mistake of holding too much light from any of these plants. This produces shorter stems and a more compact plant.

We are listing all Gesneriads in one group as you will find them listed in the following varieties.

Remember we cannot ship plants safely in freezing weather, so try to get orders out during early fall. Also, when weather is hot or cold, it is best to add Special Handling. We have all varieties at the nursery all winter and can pack them to carry out at any time. Plants are nearly all from 3 inch pots and in bloom, the only exception is where a plant is new and much in demand.
